DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 – 7 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Applicant has cancelled claim 1, previously rejected in the Office action dated July 22, 2005 and changed dependency of claims 2 – 6 to claim 7, previously allowed.

Kommrusch teaches a second inductor connected in parallel to a second SAW resonator disposed in a series arm (i.e. Fig. 5, with respect to series and parallel SAW resonators in Fig. 3), but does not teach a first inductor connected in series to the other SAW resonator (parallel arm) or where the resonance point of at least one of the first SAW resonator and the second SAW resonator is adjusted by the first inductor.

Satoh et al. teaches a first inductor connected in series to the other SAW resonator (parallel arm) but does not teach a second inductor connected in parallel to a second SAW resonator disposed in a series arm where Satoh et al. teaches series inductors in the series arm.

Neither Kommrusch nor Satoh et al. teach or suggest the teaching of the other where Kommrusch is drawn to improved coupling coefficient and reduced insertion loss of the ladder filters center frequency (col. 6, lines 32-37). Satoh et al. teaches greater attenuation at notch frequencies, side lobes (Fig. 14), further where the coupling coefficient of Satoh et al. is drawn to electro-mechanical properties of the of the crystal cut and thickness and where inductors are connected in the series to the series arm resonators, thus where neither Kommrusch nor Satoh et al. teach or suggest the limitations of at least independent claim 7, nor would it have been obvious to combine the prior art of record thus the claims are allowable.
